Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.The Pressing Issue of Our Time The pressing issue for people in a state of crisis, whether it is stress, depression, anxiety or any variation thereof, is that they want, need, and absolutely require immediate attention Unfortunately this generally does not happen. Typically it takes weeks before people in crisis can be seen by professional care givers. This guide provides effective methods for first responders to greatly reduce this time gap. What can be done? The Attitude Shifting answer is very simple. To obtain long term mastery over the feelings of anxiety, depression, frustration, and stress you have to assume the responsibility of addressing the causes not the symptoms by making a CHOICE to change...
