Excerpt from The Latter-Day Saints Millennial Star, Vol. 79: September 27, 1917 Perhaps none of us realize, as we should do, how greatly blessings are due to suffering under the chastening hand of God. Chastening is always a painful process, it is true, but it is one that develops in us qualities of divine beauty which would otherwise never appear in us at all. The great Apostle of old explained this fact to the Hebrews when he wrote, Now, no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; nevertheless, afterwards it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them that are exercised thereby (heb. 12: and Dr. Miller, in one of his comforting volumes, points out that redemption, the worlds greatest blessing, was the fruit of the worlds greatest sorrow. Our carnal natures always shrink from any sort of suffering, but even then we can find much comfort if we try to realize the truth that God is working in us both to will and to do of His good pleasure (phil. 2: To quote once again the words of St...
